INTRODUCTION

2 Defendants' assert "For more than forty years, the United States government has 3 unambiguously asserted that the boundary of the Colorado River Indian Reservation in the 4 area surrounding the property at issue in the case ("Property") is a fixed line following the 5 course of the Colorado River as it flowed in 1865, when the Reservation was created." See
6 Combined Reply Brief in Support of Defendants' Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment
7 and Opposition to Plaintiff's Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment ("Defendants' Br.")
8 (ECF No.66) at 1.

9 As trustee for the Colorado River Indian Tribes (CRIT), it is commendable that the U.S.
10 government is indeed fulfilling its obligation to this domestic dependent sovereign. But 11 paradoxically, the same U.S. government is also responsible for insuring that its 12 responsibilities to CRIT do not infringe upon the rights of other United States citizens, and 13 in particular, due process and property rights. And it is that paradox that this Court must 14 consider in these proceedings.

15 In spite of Defendants' gross mischaracterizations of French's arguments throughout 16 their briefs, drawing wild conclusions while extrapolating tangential hypothetical scenarios, 17 French's primary argument is very simple and plainly stated. From Plaintiff's Combined 18 Opening/Opposition Brief (ECF No. 62) ("Plaintiff's Br.") at 9:

19 Federal law established by a Congressional statute, PL88-302, denies authority to 20 the Secretary of the Interior to approve leases within the disputed area until a 21 final determination of the reservation western boundary finds these lands 22 included within the reservation. Therefore, until the boundary has been finally 23 determined in CRIT's favor, CRIT cannot possibly have inherent authority or the 24 power of exclusion over nonmembers in accordance with federal law. See SOF ¶ 25 1.

26 It is abundantly clear from this Congressional statute, that the crux of the issue here is 27 whether there has been a final determination of the reservation western boundary. The 28 preponderance of evidence before the court, including findings by two U.S. Supreme Court
Special Masters, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, CRIT's admissions in the AZ v CA
Stipulation and Agreement, CRIT's admissions by its Attorney General and Tribal Council

1 Chairman, and pleadings by the State of California, clearly demonstrates that the 2 reservation western boundary is still in dispute and that the boundary has not been “finally 3 determined”. Yet all such evidence is dismissed by Defendants’ with “French’s examples 4 simply show that others share his misguided worldview”. Defendants’ Br. at 4.

5 Or instead, Defendants’ insist that “the Property is tribal land, within the reservation, 6 and French is barred from arguing otherwise”. Defendants’ Br. at 5. Defendants’ assert 7 that French is barred from 1) suggesting that the boundary is in dispute, 2) the Property is 8 not conclusively on tribal land, and 3) a final determination of the boundary has not been 9 made.

10 The tactics employed here are consistent with similar cases involving CRIT’s attempts 11 to confiscate or destroy private property of non-tribal member families within the disputed 12 area; or alternatively, force residents from their homes through intimidation tactics, which 13 have frequently included burning down confiscated homes. Rather than allowing 14 adjudication of the issues for which CRIT claims jurisdiction, the Tribes simply utilize their 15 sovereign immunity to prevent adjudication. See Plaintiff’s Statement of Facts (“Plaintiff’s 16 SOF”) Exhibits A, & K.

17 However, this case stands apart from those that have come before because sovereign 18 immunity does not apply and the canons of justice can finally be utilized to tender an end 19 to this disgraceful saga of the unintended consequences of providing Indian favoritism 20 under the law. Or at a minimum, a ruling that Defendants’ have no subject matter 21 jurisdiction over French and relief must be granted as requested.

22 ARGUMENT

23 I. French is Not Estopped from Citing the Boundary Dispute

24 Defendants’ claim that French is estopped from seeking the Court’s recognition of the 25 boundary dispute. See Defendants’ Br. at 2. However, Defendants’ offer no case law 26 supporting this argument on estoppel. From the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals ruling in 27 Turley v. Eddy 70 Fed. Appx. 934 (2003) WL 21675511 (9th Cir. July 16, 2003) that 28

1 specifically found a boundary dispute existing, it is clear that no such estoppel argument 2 can prevail. See Plaintiff's SOF ¶12.

3 Defendants' claim that "French asks this Court to make a factual finding that the 4 western boundary of the Colorado River Indian Reservation is "disputed." Plaintiff's Br. at 5 15." See Defendants' Br. at 2. However the word "finding" is nowhere on the page cited.
6 The statement is simply "French's jurisdictional question only asserts and only requires the 7 Court's recognition of the boundary dispute." As such, French has not requested any 8 finding by the Court. This is because within the case law cited, AZ v. CA and Turley v.
9 Eddy, it is abundantly clear that previous courts have recognized the boundary dispute, 10 negating the need for any subsequent finding. See Plaintiff's SOF ¶1-4, 12. See Arizona
11 v. California 376 U.S. 340 [Arizona I], Arizona v. California, 460 U.S. 605, 636 (1983)
12 [Arizona II], Arizona v. California, 493 U.S. 886 (1989) [Arizona III].

13 II. Tribal Courts Finding of Jurisdiction Cannot be Affirmed

14 A. Tribal Court Jurisdiction is Lacking due to Both the Disputed Boundary 15 and Public Law 88-302

16 Defendants' claim that "French's principal argument in support of his motion for 17 summary judgment is that, because he has provided "clear evidence" of an alleged 18 "boundary dispute", the Tribal Courts were precluded from exercising jurisdiction over 19 him. Plaintiff's Br. at 2". This is a deliberate gross mischaracterization of the 20 statements made in French's brief, and the substance of French's argument presented.
21 French's brief reads, "French has challenged these claims and affirmatively asserts that 22 the tribal court has no jurisdiction over him as a non-tribal member, providing clear 23 evidence that the boundary dispute has not been resolved and as a result, a 24 congressional statute, Public Law 88-302, (Act of April 30, 1964, Public Law 88-302, 25 78 Stat. 188) (PL88-302) specifically precludes CRIT jurisdiction over him". See 26 Plaintiff's Br. at 2. [Emphasis added]. Therefore it is quite clear that BOTH the 27 boundary dispute and Public Law 88-302 together result in the preclusion of Secretarial 28 authority to issue leases in the disputed area. It is this preclusion in the statute that

1 ultimately denies tribal court jurisdiction over French, not simply the boundary dispute 2 as asserted by Defendants.

3 B. Defendants' Claim of Unsupported Allegations by French are Contrary
4 to the Tribal Court Record

5 Defendants' attempt to obfuscate CRIT's past history of burning down homes, 6 destroying private property, motivations for huge rent increases, and designs to secure 7 rights to class III gaming in the disputed area by claiming that those references in 8 French's brief are "unsupported allegations". See Defendants' Br. at 4, Fn 2. The 9 following is a listing of the allegations and support in the record, in contrast to 10 Defendants' claims.

11 (1) CRIT Burned Down 27 Mobile Homes

12 In 2000, CRIT burned down 27 mobile homes at Red Rooster. See Plaintiff's SOF
13 ¶1 Exhibit A, The Holt Report, p. E.R.55. (The Holt Report is unrebutted in the record, 14 and therefore Defendants' cannot at this late juncture refute French's expert witness.)

15 (2) CRIT Destroyed the Electrical Service to Another 22 Homes

16 In 2001, CRIT destroyed the electrical service in a brutal coordinated raid after the 17 BIA refused to participate in a self help eviction. This criminal activity was the subject 18 of Turley v. Eddy described at length in the Holt Report, and documented within the 19 Ninth Circuit Court's ruling. See Plaintiff's SOF ¶1 Exhibit A, The Holt Report, p.
20 E.R.53, SOF ¶12 Exhibit K.

21 (3) CRIT Has Sought to Obtain Class III Gaming in the Disputed Area

22 In spite of Defendants' denials, CRIT has indeed attempted to secure rights to class 23 III gaming in the disputed area. See SOF ¶16.

24 C. Defendants' Repeated Claims of the Application of Water Wheel Ignore 25 the Basis Required for Such Application

26 As clearly presented in French's brief:

27 ...the circumstances between this matter before the Court and Water Wheel are 28 fundamentally incongruent due to the concession of reservation land by Water Wheel within the proceedings. In Water Wheel, the Court noted "Plaintiffs are

1 not here contesting the reservation status of the land[.] Dkt. #50 at 15. The 2 Court will hold Plaintiffs to this position...The Court therefore will proceed with 3 the assumption that Water Wheel occupies reservation land.” No. CV-08- 4 0474-PHX-DGC, 2009 WL 3089216, at III, (D.Ariz. Sept, 23, 2009), aff’d in 5 part, vacated in part, rev’d in part, 642 F.3d 802 (citing Dawavendewa, 267 F.3d
 6 at 1161-63). [Emphasis added]. Unlike Water Wheel, French has not conceded 7 that the subject land is reservation land. Therefore, the current matter before this 8 Court bears no resemblance to Water Wheel due to the differing underlying 9 premises and assumptions by the Water Wheel Court. See Plaintiff’s Br. at 15- 10 16.

11 Defendants’ ignore this fundamental and indeed primary requirement for the 12 application of a Water Wheel analysis; i.e. the concession of tribal land. Water Wheel 13 Recreational Area, Inc. v. La Rance, 642 F.3d 802 (9th Cir. 2011). French does not 14 concede Tribal land. French instead points out that the land is contained within an area 15 that is disputed as conceded by the U.S. and CRIT, clearly demonstrated by the Arizona
 16 III Stipulation and Agreement. See SOF ¶6 Exhibit D.

17 Instead Defendants’ again insist “the Property is tribal land, within the Reservation, 18 and French is barred from arguing otherwise” without any evidence controverting the 19 preponderance of evidence in the record that the land is in dispute. See Defendants’ Br.
 20 at 5. So by ignoring the fact that tribal land was conceded by Water Wheel and the 21 subsequent “assumptions by the Water Wheel Court” as presented in French’s brief, 22 Defendants’ argument centers upon their unfounded assertions of conclusively tribal 23 land to apply a Water Wheel analysis. See Plaintiff’s Br. at 15-16.

24 D. Application of Strate is Indeed the Appropriate Analysis

25 Defendants’ reject the application of an analysis from Strate v. A-1 Contractors, 520 26 U.S. 438 (1997), by claiming that the Property is conclusively tribal land and “no right-27 of-way or other alienation of the land has occurred”. See Defendants’ Br. at 6. But 28 Defendants’ ignore the reasoning in Strate included in French’s brief:

 the Court held that the grant of right-of-way to the state, which precluded the tribe from exercising proprietary rights of exclusion, rendered the highway the equivalent of non-Indian fee land. Id. at 454. Like Strate, this case concerns lands whereby the Tribe cannot exercise proprietary rights of exclusion or a landowner’s right to exclude, due to the dispute over the western boundary

1 coupled with PL 88-302. And like Strate, the preclusion of the right to exclusion
2 is due to the state's interests in the lands at issue. Therefore the irrefutable 3 conclusion is that since CRIT is precluded from exercising proprietary rights of 4 exclusion, the disputed area as in Strate, is the equivalent of non-Indian fee land.
5 See Plaintiff's Br. at 9.

6 The Strate Court was correct in recognizing that the first step in the determination of 7 tribal court jurisdiction over a non-member is to make a finding of whether the activity 8 at issue occurred on tribal or non-tribal land. It subsequently recognized that the 9 dividing line between these two choices can sometimes be fuzzy as it was in Strate. The 10 state highway was without question on tribal land. But from a jurisdictional standpoint, 11 was it? The Court determined wisely that the state highway was the equivalent of non-12 Indian land for the purposes of determining whether it was subject to tribal jurisdiction.

13 The matter before this Court presents a similar situation where the dividing line 14 between tribal and non-tribal land is fuzzy. Fortunately, the Strate court has provided 15 sage guidance: Is CRIT precluded from exercising a proprietary right of exclusion in the 16 disputed area? Considering Public Law 88-302 coupled with the existing boundary 17 dispute, the answer to this question is undeniably "YES".

18 For this Court to find that CRIT is not precluded from exercising a proprietary right 19 of exclusion because French is barred from presenting the reality of the boundary 20 dispute would effectively make a mockery of the U.S. judicial system, force French and 21 hundreds of others similarly situated to be stripped of their constitutional rights while 22 being subjugated to a hostile foreign sovereign, and set precedent with extreme negative 23 consequences. The Court cannot reach such a finding as it defeats all notions of justice.

24 E. Citing a Boundary Dispute is Not "Splitting Hairs"

25 Defendants' claim that the Standard Rules of Estoppel still apply even though they 26 are now apparently cognizant of French's argument that the Property is not within the 27 undisputed boundaries of the reservation and there is no direct challenge to ownership 28 of the Property. See Defendants' Br. at 6-7. Just as the Strate court recognized that the determination of tribal land involves taking into account many factors, this Court

1 similarly must consider the third possibility in the evaluation of tribal/non-tribal land.
 2 In spite of Defendants' characterization of this as "splitting hairs", the boundary dispute 3 requires acknowledgment and consideration of its reality.

4 F. Defendants' Attempts to Invoke FRCP 19 are Without Merit

5 Once again we have Defendants attempting to invoke the Catch 22 of Rule 19 in this 6 matter. "French does not contest that Rule 19 applies in this case". See Defendants' Br.
 7 at 7. However, Defendants' same Rule 19 arguments were soundly rejected by the 8 Water Wheel court as presented in French's brief:

9 The citation to FRCP 19 by Defendants (Def's Brief at 10-12) is confounding 10 because the Water Wheel decision rather than supporting grounds for dismissal as 11 claimed by Defendants, instead rejected CRIT's assertions of indispensable party based on FRCP 19. Quoting Water Wheel, Id. at VII. :

12 CRIT urges the Court to dismiss this action because CRIT is an indispensable
 13 party under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 19 and has not been sued. CRIT 14 makes several arguments. The Court finds none of them persuasive....

15 See Plaintiff's Br. at 16.

16 G. Defendants' Attempts to Invalidate U.S. Supreme Court Findings and 17 Special Master Orders Fail as Demonstrated by the Ninth Circuit Court

18 Defendants' claim "erroneous" that the U.S. Supreme Court rejected the argument 19 that the 1969 Secretarial Order was a "final determination". Defendants' claim 20 "irrelevant" the findings by U.S. Supreme Court Special Master McGarr. Defendants 21 also claim that the Supreme Court's decision in Arizona v. California, 460 U.S. 605 22 (1983) has "no bearing on the validity of the 1969 Secretarial Order for the purposes of 23 this litigation". See Defendants' Br. at 8. All of these claims and arguments supposedly 24 supporting these wild assertions cannot be reconciled with the Ninth Circuit Court of 25 Appeals ruling in Turley v. Eddy that was premised on the fact that the CRIT western 26 boundary is in dispute within the disputed area. See Plaintiff's Br. at 7. From the Ninth Circuit's ruling:

27 "it is clear that there is a legitimate dispute about the boundaries of the 28 CRIT'S reservation..... See Arizona v. California, 460 U.S. 605, 629-31, 103
 S.Ct. 1382, 75 L.Ed.2d 318 (1983); Arizona v. California, 530 U.S. 392, 418-

1 19, 120 S.Ct. 2304, 147 L.Ed.2d 374 (2000)’.

2 See Plaintiff’s SOF ¶ 12 Exhibit K.

3 Most conclusive of evidence damaging to Defendants’ assertions is the citing by the 4 Ninth Circuit to the same U.S. Supreme Court cases that Defendants’ claim has “no 5 bearing on the validity of the 1969 Secretarial Order”.

6 It should be emphasized that Turley v. Eddy was centered upon a similar eviction of 7 disputed area residents by CRIT, whose self help eviction in that matter involved a 8 portion of the Paradise Point resort, fully explained in French’s briefs. See Plaintiff’s 9 Br. at 2. See also Plaintiff’s SOF Exhibit A, The Holt Report p. E.R. 53. Like the 10 current case through the tribal court proceedings, the funding for the rights of Paradise 11 Point in Turley v. Eddy was provided entirely by the residents through the West Bank 12 Homeowners Association.

13 H. Denial of CRIT’s Inconsistent Position in Aranson Ignore the Facts

14 Defendants’ claim:

15 CRIT did not take the position in Aranson that the western boundary of the 16 Reservation is ambulatory and moves with the changing course of the River, as 17 opposed to fixed, as was adopted by the United States in 1969. In that case, 18 CRIT argued that it was entitled to the land at issue under a theory of aboriginal 19 title. Defendants’ Br. at 8.

20 Regardless of claims of CRIT’s aboriginal title (that were rejected in Arizona III)
21 U.S. Supreme Court Special Master McGarr correctly cited CRIT’s consistent premise 22 with the U.S. that the western boundary was indeed riparian in order to recover land 23 previously lost to avulsive acts. Boundaries are either fixed or riparian. There is no 24 other option, nor is there any law that allows Indians to have it both ways where the 25 boundary is a call to a river. Recovery of land lost to avulsive acts can only apply if the 26 boundary is riparian. Therefore, Defendants’ defense of CRIT’s obvious inconsistent 27 position by asserting aboriginal title cannot prevail as noted by the Special Master. See 28 Plaintiff’s Br. at 8. See also Plaintiff’s SOF ¶¶ 9, 10.

27 III. Tribal Courts Finding of Jurisdiction Cannot be Supported by a Montana
28 Analysis

1 A. French Never had a “Consensual Relationship” with CRIT

2 Defendants’ claim:

3 Undisputed facts in the record establish that French had a consensual relationship 4 with the Tribes. He leased the Property from the Tribes pursuant to a Permit that clearly listed CRIT as the “Permitter”... See Defendants’ Br. at 9.

5 However, French’s briefs are replete with disputed facts that demonstrate there was 6 no basis whatsoever for a “consensual relationship”. From French’s Opposition to 7 Motion for Summary Judgment:

8 Contrary to the factually unsubstantiated legal conclusion asserted by CRIT that 9 the Permit was valid and created a consensual relationship between CRIT and 10 Defendant (MSJ P.15 L. 2-26), a close examination of the document(s) in dispute show just the opposite. Nowhere in the original permit entered into by and 11 between the United States Department of Interior Bureau of Indian Affairs and Assignors Donald & Shirley Neatrour (or the subsequent assignment to 12 Defendant French) is there supporting evidence of any kind that establishes:

13(6) That the original “Permittees” the Neatrours’ or subsequent assignee Defendant French ever entered into an expressed consensual relationship with anyone other 14 than the United States Department of the Interior.

15 Specifically, a review of the Permit at issue before this Court conclusively establishes:

- 16 a) The Permit is on the Letterhead of the U.S. Department of Interior (as 17 prepared by the Secretary of Interior). (Permit/Assignment; French Decl.) 18 b) The Permit required the Secretary of Interior’s signature as a necessary and indispensable party to the contract. (Permit/Assignment) 19 c) The Permit is wholly devoid of any expressed reference to CRIT Tribal 20 Court Jurisdiction. (Permit/Assignment)
21 d) The Permit and all provisions thereunder including assignments 22 specifically require the approval of the U.S. Secretary of Interior...CRIT’s approval and or authority alone is insufficient under the terms of the Permit. (Permit/Assignment)

23 See Plaintiff’s SOF Exhibit B, p. 9-11.

24 B. A Montana Analysis Does Not Require a Determination of the Permit’s
25 Validity

26 Defendants’ claim that French attempts to avoid a Montana analysis by arguing that 27 his Permit was void ab initio. Montana v. U.S. 450 U.S. 544 (1981). See Defendants Br.
28

1 at 11. However French' brief makes quite clear that even if the Permit were somehow 2 valid, a Montana analysis would still conclude tribal jurisdiction cannot apply:

3 However, even if a "consensual relationship" between French and CRIT could be 4 established by a void and cancelled Permit between French and the U.S. Dept. of 5 Interior, such could not possibly implicate the "tribe's sovereign interests" as is 6 required in accordance with Plains Commerce. See Plaintiff's Br. 11.

7 Conveniently, Defendants' refuse to address the application of Plains Commerce
8 Bank v. Long Family Land and Cattle Company, 554 U.S. 316 (2008) as cited by French 9 (quoting COHEN'S HANDBOOK OF FEDERAL INDIAN LAW §4.02[3] [c] at 10 241(Neil Jessup Newton ed.,2012) clarifying Montana's consensual relationship 11 exception as it "must stem from the tribe's inherent sovereign authority to set 12 conditions on entry, preserve tribal self-government, or control internal 13 relations"); id. at 341 [Emphasis added]. See Plaintiff's Br. at 11.

13 C. Defendants' Attempts to Utilize Montana's Second Exceptions Also Fail

14 Defendants' attempt to persuade this Court that the second Montana exception 15 applies to French by complaining that case law interpretations described in WILLIAM 16 CANBY, JR., AMERICAN INDIAN LAW IN A NUTSHELL, 5th Edition 85 (2009) are 17 "exceedingly narrow". See Defendants' Br. at 12-13. Defendants instead offer case law 18 concerning obstructions to tribal enforcement of health and safety on tribal land that 19 prevents tribes from being governed by their own laws. But the cases cited only 20 concern tribal land, which is at odds with a Montana analysis, rendering all the citations 21 inapplicable and moot. However, even if one were to consider these elements in a 22 Montana analysis, it is clear that any lost rental value from French's tiny property to a 23 casino rich Indian tribe is hardly a "substantial and adverse effect on the Tribe" as 24 asserted by Defendants. Considering the Tribes' wealth against French's loss of his 25 realty improvements plus costs of litigation, Defendants' argument is indeed absurd at 26 best.

27 IV. Defendants' Characterization of French as a "Deadbeat" Tenant Ignore the 28 Facts in the Record and the History of his Efforts to Work with the Tribes

1 Defendants' assert:

2 Montana was not intended to leave tribes impotent to remove deadbeat tenants 3 from their property; indeed, Montana's second prong was designed to ensure that 4 tribes could protect themselves from such abuse. See Defendants' Br. at 13.

5 The inference that French and other West Bank residents who choose not to pay rent 6 to the Tribes are "deadbeats" would be insulting if such a characterization could be 7 taken seriously. As the preponderance of evidence in the record clearly demonstrates, 8 the reasons for the actions taken by the residents were to preserve their rights and resist 9 an oppressive hostile foreign sovereign that has a history of committing brutal acts 10 against them, continuing to this day, and has at best, questionable claims to the land at 11 issue. See Plaintiff's SOF ¶¶1-4, 6-13, 15-17, Plaintiff's Br. at 1-2, and SOF Exhibit A, 12 The Holt Report, p. E.R.54-56. Also, of particular note is the disingenuous nature of 13 Defendants' complaints to the court of "the expenditure of significant tribal resources to 14 bring the eviction action" while ignoring the costs of litigation on the other side paid for 15 by the same "deadbeat" residents. See Defendants Motion for Summary Judgment p.
16 16. Fighting for their property and constitutional rights, French and the West Bank 17 residents are hardly "deadbeats".

18 CONCLUSION

19 For all of the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff French respectfully requests that the Court 20 deny Defendants' subject matter jurisdiction and grant relief as requested in his Complaint, (ECF 6) at p.14-16.
