30th Annual NNALSA

JUDGES NEEDED FOR NATIONAL NALSA MOOT COURT COMPETITION

Colorado Law is hosting the 30th Annual National NALSA Moot Court Competition on February 26-27th, 2022, virtually via Zoom. Law students from across the country will take on the challenge of writing and arguing the most compelling federal Indian law and tribal governance issues. Teams of two students will write an appellate brief and give oral arguments addressing the same legal problem using their own unique legal theories.

We are in need of Oral Argument Judges to sit on a panel of three and individually score competitors via Zoom. Each Judge can determine the number of rounds they participate in based on their availability. Please see our website rules (<https://www.nnalsamootcourt2022.com/downloads>) if you are unsure whether you qualify as a judge.

Volunteer Judges are critical to the success of this competition and we would greatly appreciate your support. If you are interested in judging, sign up via the form on our website:
